Canadian Council on Social Development

Canada's longest serving social development organization
Like us on Facebook at CanadianCouncilonSocialDevelopment
Follow us on Twitter at the_ccsd

Community Snapshot

The Global City: Newcomer Health in Toronto 2011 ⬈

Photo credit: City of Toronto Public Health

The project coordinators and report authors: Erika Khandor, MHSc, Epidemiologist, Toronto Public Health; and Andrew Koch, MHSc, former Planning and Evaluation Coordinator at Access Alliance Multicultural Health and Community Services. Currently Andrew works as a Health Planner at Unison Health & Community Services.

Project advisors: Liz Corson, Epidemiologist, Toronto Public Health; Peter Dorfman, former Manager – Newcomer

Initiative; and Paul Fleiszer, Manager Surveillance and Epidemiology Unit, Toronto Public Health

Organizations

City of Toronto Public Health and Access Alliance Multicultural Health and Community Services

Community data used

- Target group profile of recent immigrants, Census, 2006
- Immigrant status and period of immigration (8) and place of birth (261) for the immigrants and non-permanent residents, Census, 2006
- Citizenship (5), place of birth (35), sex (3) and immigrant status and period of immigration (12) for the population, Census, 2006
- Visible minority groups (15), immigrant status and period of immigration (9), age groups (10) and sex (3) for the population, Census, 2006

Summary

This report describes the health advantage that most newcomers bring to Toronto, the decline in their health over time and the need to strengthen our efforts to support newcomers, especially those whose health risks are compounded by their income level, gender, immigration status, ethno-racial background, sexual orientation or other factors. This report results from a partnership between Toronto Public Health and Access Alliance Multicultural Health and Community Services. It is the first comprehensive report on the health of newcomers in Toronto. [View report]

The CCSD Community Data Program ↗ helps community groups and municipalities access small-area socioeconomic data.

Contact us ↗ to find out more.